Welcome

We call this the “Essential Guide for Grad Students” for a good reason. In it, you’ll find essential information not only to get your year started, but also to help you connect with the resources you may need throughout the year—and throughout your program. There are workshops to help you manage stress or develop new interests, opportunities to unwind and meet other graduate students, and places to find academic support or explore career options.

Whether you are a new or a continuing student, do take a few minutes to browse the EGG directory. You may be surprised to discover that, despite its scale and tri-campus reach, U of T has a strong and close-knit graduate community.

I also encourage you to get acquainted with the School of Graduate Studies, described on page 13 of this guide. Our student support team at 63 St. George Street serves a broad range of needs, from administrative assistance, transition advising for international students, and financial advising to accessibility advising and wellness counselling. We also provide workshops and courses designed to develop your academic and professional skills through the Graduate Centre for Academic Communication (GCAC) and the Graduate Professional Skills (GPS) program.

Never hesitate to ask for assistance, and be confident in knowing that you have many pathways to find it. The School of Graduate Studies and its tri-campus partners are here to help you achieve academic and personal success from registration to graduation—and beyond.

Welcome to the School of Graduate Studies

63 St. George Street
Office hours: Monday-Friday, 9:30 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.
sgs.utoronto.ca

Located in the Macdonald-Mowat building, the School of Graduate Studies at 63 St. George Street is home to various resources and services, including:

Student Academic Services Office, Room 101: Need an official letter, or information about academic records, registration, or enrolment? Looking for assistance with program management or progress? Visit us in person, or contact us by phone or email (416-978-6614; graduate.information@utoronto.ca).

The Graduate Awards Office, Room 201: Whether you’re applying for a scholarship, or seeking emergency financial support, bring your questions to us. Our Financial Advisor can also help you with managing educational expenses, budgeting, and planning. Visit us in person, or contact us by phone or email:

- Awards Inquiries: 416-946-0808 (graduate.awards@utoronto.ca)
- Financial Aid and Advising: 416-978-2839 (sgs.financial.assistance@utoronto.ca)

Program Completion Offices, Doctoral and Master's, Room 110: Our staff are here to help you coordinate the details of your doctoral final examination and clarify your questions about the electronic submission of your thesis. We can also answer your graduation questions and provide letters indicating the completion of your degree requirements.

Recruitment and Admissions Office and International Student Support: A resource to resolve admissions issues affecting grad students, we also assist students and grad units alike with joint educational placements. Weekly, we host CIE’s International Transition Advisor at 63 St. George Street. Check our advisor’s drop-in office hours at uoft.me/transitionadvisor.

Accessibility Advising for Graduate Students: New this fall, SGS hosts an Accessibility Advisor who can answer your questions about academic accommodations and connect you with a network of resources at U of T. Find out more at www.sgs.utoronto.ca.

Wellness Counselling for Grad Students: If you’re looking for counselling, call the Health & Wellness Centre (416-978-8030), and they will set up an assessment for you. You may be recommended to an SGS Wellness Counsellor at 63 St. George Street. Free wellness workshops for grad students are also available twice monthly next door at 65 St. George Street: uoft.me/stayingwell.

Grad Student Lounge, first floor: Drop by and enjoy a quiet place to read, relax, or get some work done while you’re on St. George campus.

Meeting rooms: Bookable space is available for grad-related activities, including writing groups and more. Additional space can be booked at 65 George Street and the SGS Grad Room at 66 Harbord Street. Check availability at uoft.me/sgsrooms.

SGS at large

Sign up for brunch or coffee with the SGS Dean and help make a difference by sharing your thoughts about your graduate experience at U of T! Invitations for these one-hour sessions are issued through graduate units in August. Graduate students from all program stages are encouraged to participate.

Beyond our home at 63 St. George, the School of Graduate Studies offers a wide range of programs and workshops to hone your academic and professional skills and to build community with grad students of different disciplines. Be sure to check out the directory listings in this guide for the Graduate Centre for Academic Communication (GCAC) and Graduate Professional Skills program (GPS).

The SGS website is also an excellent resource, offering everything from employment outcomes data for our recent PhDs to a new Graduate Wellness Portal.
First steps for new students
JOINid, TCard, UTORid and UTmail+

The University of Toronto issues a JOINid to applicants, so that they can access key online services before coming to campus. You should have received an email with your JOINid and instructions for enabling it at uoft.me/enable. If you’ve lost the email or didn’t receive it, please contact admissions.sgs@utoronto.ca.

Before arrival, you can use your JOINid and existing email address for residence applications and to access your student account on ACORN (acorn.utoronto.ca).

Once you pick up your TCard (your U of T student card), your JOINid will become your UTORid, giving you access to further services: ACORN, wireless networks, online library resources, Career Exploration & Education and more. After you activate your UTORid, you’ll be able to set up your U of T email account, where you’ll receive all official email communications from the University.

Proof of citizenship and your offer of admission letter are required in order to receive a TCard. Before collecting your TCard, check your legal status on ACORN to make sure your status matches your legal documents. If it doesn’t match, stop by SGS Student Academic Services to have your record updated before going to the TCard office. For detailed information about the documentation required to get your TCard, visit tcard.utoronto.ca.

You can get your TCard at the following locations:

St. George campus:
TCard Services, Koffler Student Services Building, 214 College Street, Room 102

Mississauga campus:
CCT Atrium, lower level, Room CC 0160A

Scarborough campus:
1265 Military Trail
Bladen Wing, 4th floor
Sep to Apr:
Room BV498A
May to Aug:
Room BV481

Lost or stolen TCard?
To replace your TCard, visit the nearest TCard office with your student number or UTORid, one piece of valid government-issued photo ID and the $20 replacement fee (debit or credit only). For full details, visit tcard.utoronto.ca/lost-replacement-tcard.
ACORN stands for Accessible Campus Online Resource Network (acorn.utoronto.ca) and is the student web interface where you can enrol in courses, check fees and finances, and perform registration tasks such as updating address and contact information. It provides a convenient, personalized and guided experience for using U of T’s online services.

As a new graduate student, you need to get your TCard (U of T student card) and activate your UTmail+ (U of T email address). You can then login to ACORN using your UTORid and password.

Clearing conditions

Your SGS offer of admission letter outlines important information about your program. It may also include conditions which must be satisfied before you can register. If you’re unsure about how to clear your conditions, contact your graduate unit.

International students

As of September 2018, most international research-stream PhD students are eligible to pay domestic tuition rates. This new tuition fee structure will be applied automatically to all international graduate students registered in eligible PhD programs in all years of study. Students registered in research-stream master’s programs and professional master’s programs will not be affected by this change.

To find out whether this change to the international fee structure applies to your program, please consult your graduate unit.

If you are an international student and have just arrived on St. George campus, make sure one of your first stops is the Centre for International Experience (CIE, cie.utoronto.ca) at 33 St. George Street. Taking place in late August and early September, the CIE Orientation includes many events to help you transition to U of T, including informative and engaging activities, campus and neighbourhood tours, opportunities to meet and interact with other students, a Services Expo, and the CIE Welcome Reception. Learn more at https://www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/cie/orientation.
Status in Canada fee exemption

Has your legal status in Canada changed? If you are in a program not affected by the 2018 change in international tuition fee structure, you may be eligible for a Status in Canada fee exemption. Please bring your original documents to SGS Student Academic Services so staff can make the change. If you have questions regarding the kinds of documentation to present, please contact SGS Student Academic Services at graduate.info@utoronto.ca or 416-978-6614.

Changes to legal status must be made by the following deadlines:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Reassessment</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>November 1</td>
<td>for reassessment of the complete fall and winter session</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 1</td>
<td>for reassessment of the winter session only</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 28</td>
<td>for reassessment of the complete summer session (only applies to students charged tuition fees for the summer session)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If you’re unable to provide the required documentation by these deadlines, you must pay the international tuition rate. A change of status is not retroactive to any previous session.
Information for all students

What’s the difference between enrolment and registration? To enrol, you add yourself to courses. To register, you pay your tuition and incidental fees, or make an arrangement to register without payment (fee deferral).

Enrolment

Most graduate units allow you to enrol in courses through ACORN (acorn.utoronto.ca), but some graduate units require you to fill out a form. Consult your home graduate unit for detailed instructions and the SGS sessional dates for course enrolment deadlines: uoft.me/sessional-dates

Registration

To register on time, pay your tuition and incidental fees or make an arrangement to register without payment (fee deferral) by September 14 (if you’re starting in September) or January 14 (if you’re starting in January). Detailed instructions on how to pay tuition fees (including making a fee payment from outside of Canada) are found on the Office of Student Accounts website (www.fees.utoronto.ca). To find out how much you owe, check your invoice on ACORN. For information about service charges, visit: uoft.me/graduate-fees

You may request to register without payment (fee deferral) through ACORN if you have no outstanding fees from a previous session and are the recipient of one of the following which exceeds the minimum payment to register amount on your invoice:

- Ontario Student Assistance Plan (OSAP) loan
- Other provincial government loan
- US government loan
- University funding package (major award, research stipend or teaching stipend)
Late registration

If you register after the final date to register without financial penalty, you are required to pay a late registration fee of $44.00. This is done online through the SGS Portal. For more information, contact Student Academic Services at graduate.information@utoronto.ca.

If you don’t register by the deadline, your enrolment in courses will be cancelled and further enrolment will be blocked. After September 14 (fall/winter sessions) or January 14 (winter session) you must provide proof of payment and register at the SGS Student Academic Services office.

Balance of degree (BoD) fee

All graduate students, both full-time and part-time, must pay a minimum degree fee by the time they complete their program. For master’s students, this fee is based on the full-time program length for their program. If, at the end of your program, the total amount of academic fees you were charged during the time you were registered is less than this minimum degree fee, you will be required to pay the difference, known as the Balance of Degree fee. Note that there is no maximum degree fee. Acquaint yourself with your program’s minimum degree fee as early as possible to avoid any surprises upon graduation, and ask the Student Academic Services office at SGS for more information.
Funding & awards

In order to make informed decisions about your future, it’s important to have a clear understanding of the graduate funding landscape—an awareness of your program’s funding context and of the financial opportunities and supports available to you between admission and graduation.

If you are a student in a professional master’s, flex-time, or professional doctoral program, you will typically self-fund your educational expenses through a variety of programs including student loans, student lines of credit, and employment income. You may also be eligible for a limited number of graduate awards available through your graduate unit and various external agencies.

Most PhD and many research-stream master’s programs at the University of Toronto offer a range of financial supports to offset the cost of a graduate education. The amount and type of student support varies among graduate programs; if you are registered full-time in a research-stream program, your own graduate unit will specify your financial support in an annual funding letter. Your funding letter will also identify the sources of funding that you will receive (for example, teaching assistantships, awards, research stipends, and/or fellowships), along with a payment schedule to help you plan your finances throughout the year. On an annual basis, the School of Graduate Studies publishes base funding amounts and actual average incomes—in addition to average times to complete a degree—for graduate units across the University. Available online, this information will allow you to compare units and divisions, and help you set expectations about your own program of study. For details, visit uoft.me/understandfunding.

You are also encouraged to explore the wide range of financial supports available to U of T graduate students in the form of scholarships and merit-based awards. Visit uoft.me/graduateawards for more information.

Remember, if you are thinking of applying for scholarships and awards, plan ahead! Acquaint yourself with the awards competition cycle, and give yourself enough time to:

- take advantage of information sessions. The SGS Graduate Awards Office offers these in summer and fall.
- register for workshops and courses to help improve your applications. The Graduate Centre for Academic Communication (GCAC) is an excellent resource.
- start thinking about reference letters.
- figure out how to access online application systems.

Life on campus
Whether you’re just starting a graduate program or are in the midst of one, grad school can seem like an individual challenge. You’ll find a strong sense of community if you get involved in campus life.

Gradlife provides programs exclusively for grad students to help you build skills, get support, find balance, meet other grad students and navigate life at U of T. We can connect you to workshops, social events, campus services and helpful resources that will enrich your experience and enhance your academic achievements. Take advantage of the many opportunities and services offered, and ask for help when you need it – you’ll be glad you did!

Grad Escapes
uoft.me/gradescapes

Sometimes you just need a break. That’s why the Graduate Students’ Union and Student Life created Grad Escapes – a program that offers social, cultural and recreational opportunities to relieve graduate student stress. From art classes to recreational sports, musical theatre to historic tours, there’s something for everyone. So, forget your thesis for a night, try a new experience, and meet fellow students. Bring a partner, a friend or come alone! Student families are welcome.

As Gradlife Ambassador I discovered more than I would have ever anticipated about U of T’s student services. I was accepted into a community that works tirelessly to support students, and met so many fascinating people outside of my research division. The best part? Helping other students make these same discoveries.

Grad Room
66 Harbord Street
uoft.me/gradroom

Home to the Graduate Professional Skills (GPS) program, Grad Room is your inclusive graduate space on St. George campus. Relax, socialize, and study in the Grad Room Lounge. Join a writing group, or take in a Grad Talk or workshop in our multi-purpose programming space. Community Animators are on hand daily to answer your questions about graduate student life at U of T.

Grad Talks
uoft.me/gradtalks

Gradlife and Grad Room partner to offer learning sessions to help grad students build skills and gain balance. Most sessions are held at Grad Room at 66 Harbord Street and cover topics like communication, personal development, academic support, careers and more.

Grad Connections
uoft.me/gradconnections

Take a break and connect with other grad students at our bi-weekly chat forum. Share your experiences in an informal setting, talk about your challenges and life as a graduate student. An expert staff facilitator will be available to answer questions related to each week’s theme. This is a free event! Refreshments available.

Find balance
Having a successful grad experience means finding a way to balance your studies, health and personal life. If you need a break from your studies, head to a grad lounge, check out the events your grad association is hosting, or look into joining a club. You’ll get a chance to lower your stress levels as you meet new people and grow your network of peers.

See page 48 of the directory for more information.

Stay well
Your health and well-being are the foundation of your academic and personal success. The team at the Health & Wellness Centre offers a wide range of services – including confidential student-focused health care, nutrition counselling, immunization and more – to support you in being your best. The School of Graduate Studies offers grad wellness counselling at 63 St. George Street, and hosts an online Graduate Wellness Portal (created in partnership with the UTGSU) where you can find FAQs and a wealth of mental health services, resources, and academic supports.

See page 51 of the directory for more information.

Ask for help early and often
Some days will be better than others, so remember there’s no wrong time to reach out! There are resources for every situation and every level of stress. Through the Graduate Conflict Resolution Centre, Graduate Counselling Services and Grad Minds, you can find resources that are tailored to you and get advice from fellow grad students who have been where you are now. Don’t wait until things have reached a boiling point. Start the conversation now.

See page 51 of the directory for more information.
Get active
No matter how you like to move – from hiking to biking, playing sports, and everything in between – staying active is a wonderful way to lower your stress levels and meet new people. Physical activity helps you focus, too. So take a break from your studies and check out U of T’s athletic facilities, join an intramural team or simply take a walk and breathe deeply. You’ll be glad you did!

See page 43 of the directory for more information.

Be safe on campus
Protect yourself and your community — get informed about campus safety. The TravelSafer program, self-defence workshops and counselling are just some of the services offered by The Campus Police and Community Safety Office. Learn more at www.safety.utoronto.ca.

Career prep
Getting ready for a career you love starts now! U of T offers a wide variety of career exploration and education programming for graduate students interested in working within or outside academia. Prepare for your future through courses and workshops offered by the School of Graduate Studies’ Graduate Professional Skills (GPS) program, hone your interview skills and plan your job search through career services on all three campuses and beyond.

See page 36 of the directory for more information.
Your family
If you have family obligations to consider while you study, check out U of T’s wealth of family support resources. From on-campus daycare and family housing to confidential guidance and child and youth athletic programs, you can find the resources you need to care for your family while reaching your academic goals.

See page 42 of the directory for more information.

Academic support & resources
You’ll find lots of specialized support for graduate students at U of T, including free courses on topics such as grant writing, giving presentations, and thesis writing at the Graduate Centre for Academic Communication (GCAC), dissertation writing groups offered by the Academic Success Centre, and online resources like the SGS Graduate Supervision Guidelines for Students (uoft.me/graduatesupervision) and Best TTC Practices for Doctoral Students (uoft.me/gradTTC).

Join the LGBTQ-Grads listserv to be in touch with other graduate students and keep informed of events, programs and more. The UTGSU Queer Caucus, a political and social caucus, holds events throughout the year.

UTGSU Committees and Caucuses

Civics Committee
civics@utgsu.ca
utgsu.ca/civics

This committee coordinates efforts to deal with issues of civic engagement in all its forms. It engages in campaigns to increase member, campus and community involvement in democratic governance within wider society.

Environmental Justice and Sustainability Committee (EJSC)
civics@utgsu.ca
utgsu.ca/ejsc

The EJSC tackles issues of environmental justice and promotes sustainable policies and practices undertaken by the UTGSU.

Equity and Advocacy Committee (EAC) external@utgsu.ca
utgsu.ca/eac

The EAC discusses issues of social justice with graduate students and engages in campaigns to combat all forms of discrimination and social inequity that intersect with U of T and the wider community.

Grad Minds (UTGSU Mental & Health Advocacy Committee)
gradminds.ca

Grad Minds is part of the U of T Graduate Students’ Union (UTGSU) and provides mental health resources and services to students, advocates for graduate students’ mental health, and creates partnerships in the community. Offerings include events (arts events, film screenings, talks), the annual Open Minds conference, free yoga and monthly Mental Health at the Grad Room.

International Students’ Caucus (ISC)
isc@utgsu.ca utgsu.ca/isc

The ISC coordinates efforts on international graduate students’ success in academic and campus adaptation. Meetings and events focus on the needs of the caucus’ membership including funding, academics, immigration, health insurance, social activities and more.
Professional Graduate Students’ Caucus (PGSC)
pgsc@utgsu.ca
utgsu.ca/pgsc

The PGSC is the newest caucus composed of graduate students in professional programs to discuss their unique needs. The PGSC keeps students updated on information and events, hosts mixers and advocates on behalf of professional graduate students to various U of T bodies.

Queer Caucus (QC)
queer@utgsu.ca
utgsu.ca/queer

The QC is a political and social caucus for graduate students who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans*, and queer (LGBTQQIP2SAA). This body has the goal of naming and fighting oppression, including homophobia, heteronormativity, transphobia, gender normativity and more, within and beyond the UTGSU and the University of Toronto.

Race & Ethnicity Caucus (REC)
rec@utgsu.ca
utgsu.ca/rec

The REC is committed to social justice, community building and healing for self-identified racialized and/or graduate students of colour at the intersections of gender, ability, age, class, religion and sexuality. Activities include meetings, social events, reading groups, community outreach, panels and more.

As a member of the Queer Caucus, I connect with queer graduate students all over campus. It’s a space to feel comfortable and united both socially and politically by our queer identities. Whether it’s playing board games, going out to a bar, or screening LGBTQ2S movies, the Queer Caucus is a way to make friends and fight oppression. Graduate school can be really stressful; a network of people that understand you makes life just a little easier.

iConnect Mentorship Program
uoft.me/iconnect

A mentorship program that matches students from different countries, providing opportunities to reflect on cultural identity and strengthen intercultural skills. International students starting at U of T in September 2018 are invited to apply to be matched with a mentor.

I told my transition advisor at CIE that I was worried about teaching in a language other than my own. I’ll never forget his response: ‘In our University, we welcome students from all over the world and we don’t expect you or our students to speak in the same way or with the same accent. In fact, what makes us richer as a University is that difference.’

Nae, PhD, Department of Spanish
The ISC coordinates efforts on international graduate students’ success in academic and campus adaptation. Meetings and events focus on the needs of the caucus’ membership including funding, academics, immigration, health insurance, social activities and more.

UHIP (University Health Insurance Program)
uoft.me/uhip

Whether you're sharing your own knowledge or learning from someone more senior, mentorship matches you with another student to create a mutually beneficial learning experience. To find a mentor, or to mentor someone else, access the Mentorship Database and explore the many opportunities to connect.
Gradlife and Grad Room partner to offer learning sessions to help grad students build skills and gain balance. Most sessions are held at Grad Room at 66 Harbord Street and cover topics like communication, personal development, academic support, careers and more.

The GCAC provides graduate students with free, advanced training in academic writing and speaking on topics such as writing literature reviews, grant writing, preparing to publish, and oral presentation skills. A program of the School of Graduate Studies (SGS).

Prepare for your future with GPS! Build critical career skills beyond what you gain in your academic work. Take seminars, workshops, and courses to learn about effective communication, planning and time management, entrepreneurship, ethical practices, teamwork and leadership. Successful completion will be recognized by a transcript notation. A program of the School of Graduate Studies (SGS).

Learn key skills for successful leadership in an academic setting. Workshops in collaborative leadership techniques will help build your skills and knowledge in group facilitation, conflict resolution and more. Participation counts toward the SGS Graduate Professional Skills program.

A peer-training program providing pedagogical support to teaching assistants and grad students. Access the TATP Teaching Toolkit, seminars and workshops, certificate programs, and awards and recognitions. A program of the Centre for Teaching Support and Innovation (CTSI).

Challenge yourself with this university-wide competition for doctoral students. Participants have three minutes or less to present their research to a panel of non-specialist judges, showcasing their innovative and significant research to a wider audience, across disciplines within the University and to the broader public.
As a Peer Leadership Facilitator with Student & Campus Community Development, I had opportunities to work with and learn from fellow graduate students in a variety of programs. We shared knowledge and explored the meaning of leadership from different perspectives. It was great to expand my graduate community and meet with students outside of my own program.

A message from the University of Toronto Graduate Students’ Union (UTGSU)

16 Bancroft Ave., Toronto, M5S 1C1 416-978-2391 l info@utgsu.ca l utgsu.ca

The University of Toronto Graduate Students’ Union (UTGSU) represents over 18,000 full- and part-time graduate students, studying in over 85 departments across the St. George, Mississauga and Scarborough campuses.

The UTGSU advocates for students by acting as your voice on committees within the University of Toronto community, and on all government levels. Past campaigns defined by students’ interests include: defending students’ right to a free public post-secondary education, helping to develop a funding complaint process, and establishing transparency for funding data available in each department.

The democratic structure of the union also ensures strong student representation across departments. Each department is represented by a course union or association, meant to unite students through advocacy and social campaigns and activities. Course unions receive funding from the UTGSU to support these activities.

We also engage you in various community building activities, from our fall and winter orientations and pub socials to student development workshops. Students are encouraged to get involved in the UTGSU Committees and Caucuses that work on a number of issues identified and defined by the members, such as increased mental health support of students, and advocating for lower transit fees. For more information, visit utgsu.ca/committees-caucuses.
In addition, the UTGSU is able to provide a variety of year-round services:
